Description

It's always a pleasure to walk amongst the golden stone terraces and dry stone walls in the Arico area. The first section of this short walk is mostly on the old Camino Real (Royal Road) linking the main Arico settlements. After traversing around the Lomo de Teguedite hillside, the second section passes through the Los Gavilanes area, and is mainly on a paved minor road passing numerous rural plots and terraces. Gushing water channels, reservoirs and aqueducts are everywhere. In addition to enjoying the rural detail, there are many "big sky" views to enjoy along way. The small town of Villa de Arico feels authentically Canarian and has many old buildings, including the fine church, built in the mid 18th Century.
